STATEMENT

My work explores affect, memory, and the emotional intensity of the present moment. I focus on human bonds and inner experience through a visual language in which colour operates as emotional energy rather than as a merely formal element.

Through drawing and painting, I construct layered surfaces where textures, patterns, and repeated gestures create an internal rhythm that expands the pictorial space. The accumulation of detail becomes both a formal strategy and a contemplative process central to my practice.

I work with oil, acrylic, enamel, and embroidery, combining techniques to expand material and expressive possibilities. While each image originates in intimacy, the work ultimately seeks to resonate within a shared and universal human experience.
